You probably already know that body language is one of the best ways to attract a woman, right? I have a little experiment that I want you to try out, the next time you go out to the club or a party to socialize, walk up to a lady and try to create a conversation with her, if you feel she's a bit interested in the conversation, after about five minutes, ask her, if she remembers the first thing you said to her to create the conversation in the first place, there's an extremely high probability that she won't accurately remember what it was you said particularly, this isn't because your pick up line wasn't dope enough, its more to do with the fact that human beings generally pay more attention to non verbal communication than verbal communication, and this fact is even more prominent in the female folk. During the first few seconds of your approach to a female, she could care less about the actual words you first say to her, except it's something incredibly weird or sensational. The reason why is that her mind will be too busy processing your body language and the non verbal cues that you are giving out and throughout your interaction, she will be continuously observing and dissecting these non verbal cues.

Body language is your only real tool for attracting the opposite sex. Body language is the most fluent, lyrical, revealing, and significant form of communication. As an off-shoot of the psychology of human behavior, it is intriguing, exciting, fascinating, and fun and yet ultimately frustrating.

You may not want to believe this, but body language plays a serious role in the attraction of women. If you have a wrong body language, you may have a difficult time picking up women whenever you are out and about looking for girls. If the eyes are the windows of the soul, then the body is the mirror of our feelings. If we are feeling great it shows in how we hold and use our body. Conversely, if we look at someone else's body we can often tell how they are feeling by the signals their body is giving.

In case you don't already know the basics about body language, Body language refers to various forms of non verbal communication, wherein a person may reveal clues as to some unspoken intentions or feelings through their physical behavior. These behaviors can include body posture, gestures, facial expression and eye movements etc. In social interactions, these body positions can influence how likeable an individual appears to be to others. Body language is a typical subconscious behavior that's difficult to control just like you can hardly control the flow of blood to your legs. The nonverbal cues accentuated through body language plays an important role in social interactions.
