In this second book of the Galactic Treasure Hunt series, the Adventures of Jake and Scott continue when they blast off with their space alien friend Nojo for the lost city of Atlantis. They arrive at the end of the last ice age and watch final moments of Atlantis. But this is only the beginning of their quest: They face earthquakes, saber tooth tigers, mastodons, giant waves, sharks, mummies, alien robots, and diabolical traps that only Jake and Scott can overcome. This fast paced adventure/science fiction story combines real world physics with a fantastic plot. * secret word at the beginning of each chapter written in an alien alphabet * alphabet decoder at the end of the book lets you decode a secret message from Nojo

The kids in this book make Indiana Jones look like a couch potato and every chapter is a wild ride. It's a perfect read for second to fourth graders. It has short chapters and tons of illustrations, so it is also a great chapter book for reading to the 5 to 7 year olds. -- Island Reporter

This is the best new chapter book series I've seen for boys 6 to 10. It's pure adventure and pure fun. With all the illustrations it is the perfect pre-Harry Potter book -- like Men In Black and Indiana Jones rolled into one story. -- STAIF review

I loved the first book in this series and this new one is even better. I read the whole thing in one fast sitting and I can't imagine a second to fifth grader putting it down. The adventure is break-neck paced and there's an illustration on every page. -- PB Books
